

I understand that BellSouth has filed a petition at the FCC asking that broadband service no longer be regulated. This might result in many problems for independent ISPs and their customers such as myself. There is always a need for independent ISPs companies, who work more closely and personally with their customers. Lets not make the mistake of stopping regulation and squashing them.